

A winning combination in the workplace

I've been using my Pure® hearing aids for almost four years and can honestly say they've been life-changing. In the workplace, I no longer had to position myself at the center of a conference table in order to hear the speaker, or ask co-workers to repeat something they just said.

A year ago my company transitioned to an open environment for all. I no longer had an office, which presented new challenges. I could no longer close my door and use the speakerphone for hands-free conversation. Use of an over-the-ear device or a full headset would require me to remove my hearing aids – not an option!

My problem was solved when I purchased the miniTek® streamer. That combined with my Bluetooth®-enabled office phone (or my cell phone) enabled me to hear the caller and respond, without disturbing my co-workers or being overheard. It was the perfect solution!

An unexpected benefit is the quiet beep in my ear that no one else can hear, reminding me of meetings on my calendar, incoming calls, or receipt of a text message on my cell phone. The miniTek keeps me organized and enables me to discreetly engage in an open business environment. Of course, the fact that it can also stream sound from my television at home adds to my relaxation after a busy day in the office. I only wish I had gotten this 10 years ago! The technology is incredible, and the results immeasurable. It has been worth every penny!
